

Let's celebrate Residency Unlimited's first year and a half of activities! (scroll down for RU party this Sat)

Support RU by making a year end donation that will help us continue to shape the art residency landscape in innovative ways:

Here is what we achieved in 2010 :

- We implemented 8 customised residencies for local and international artists from Australia, Singapore, Canada, Germany and Italy.
- We partnered with 6 New York based organizations to implement 8 residencies across the city.
- RU's artists in residency participated in 4 curated projects throughout the year, including the Missing Link organized by Martha Kirzenbaum in our new headquarters at 360 Court street in Brooklyn.
- We facilitated 2 residency opportunities for New York based artists in Belo Horizonte (Brazil) and Pecs (Hungary).
- We commissioned our first writer in residency Johan Lundh to engage in conversations around the topic of nomadism and globalism in relation to residencies. You can find them on RU's Dialogues section.
- In December 2009, we created Opportunities a free service online that now serves a growing community of more than 12,000 facebook fans who receive up-to-date information about worldwide residencies.

Help us maintain these services by making a donation before January 1st, 2011 at the following link: <http://www.residencyunlimited.org/support-ru/>

As we grow, we would like to thank the following organizations and individuals for their support.

- Our international funders who are making it possible for artists and curators from their home countries to participate in our programs.
- Our individual supporters
- The Lower Manhattan Cultural Council who provided our fledgling organization with an office space for 7 months (Swing Space) at 125 Maiden Lane.
- Melissa Rachleff Burt, clinical associate professor at New York University's Visual Art Administration Program, and the students in the Fall 2010 Development for the Visual Arts course for making RU its case study and devising a fundraising strategy for 2011 and beyond.

· RU's 3 wonderful interns, Ana Pereira, Sayaka Ashidate and Diana Hsu
